

Apply to Participate in the Red Kite Summer Training Program for Teaching Artists of Color

Chicago Children's Theatre seeks applicants for the 2023 Red Kite Summer Training Program in Accessible Arts Classroom Practices for Teaching Artists of Color as part of its Education & Access programming.

The training program will unite a cohort of teaching artists of color for a series of paid trainings and skillshares in access & inclusion best practices. This unique professional development program will culminate in Camp Red Kite in late-July and August, where Summer Training Program participants will assist and observe experienced Red Kite teaching artists throughout camp.

The Red Kite Summer Training Program aims to carve out new pathways into accessibility-centered work for teaching artists, and will connect teaching artists with teaching opportunities in Red Kite and General Education classes and camps at Chicago Children's Theatre beyond the timespan of the summer program.

About The Red Kite Project

The Red Kite Project creates theatrical adventures and dynamic learning experiences for children on the autism spectrum. Red Kite is a branch of Chicago Children's Theatre and was created by CCT's Artistic Director Jacqueline Russell as part of the organization's ongoing commitment to serving children with disabilities, especially autism.

Camp Red Kite is a summer performing arts camp tailored specifically to the unique interests and needs of young people on the autism spectrum. Participants enjoy four classes during camp: Drama-Time, Movement, Art, and Music. The program is led by a team of artists, administrators, and special education teachers dedicated to creating a safe, welcoming, and engaging environment for young people on the autism spectrum. Our aim is to foster a shared arts experience that encourages self-expression, social engagement, and creative play.

Qualifications:

- Teaching artists in drama, movement, music, and/or visual arts and crafts with experience teaching youth
- Passionate about and interested in teaching the arts to young people with autism and other disabilities

This program is specifically intended to support teaching artists of color with interest in teaching students with disabilities; however, prior experience teaching students with autism and other disabilities is welcome but not required. CCT is an equal opportunity employer. While diversity of all types is a focus of this program, CCT does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or gender identity, marital status, national origin, ancestry, age, veteran or military status, disability.

Program Participants Will Receive

- Training in accessible and inclusive arts classroom practices
- Training on curriculum and structure of Camp Red Kite and Red Kite Drama Time Residencies
- Classroom experience in Camp Red Kite in-person, in a teaching assistant role
- Compensation for all training, meeting, and facilitation hours
- Opportunities to practice implementing accessible teaching practices in Camp Red Kite
- Acceptance onto the roster of CCT Teaching Artists for Red Kite and Gen Ed classes and camps
- Mentorship from Camp Red Kite Teaching Artists and alumni of the Summer Training Program
- The opportunity to connect and share ideas with teaching artists who share a passion for accessible arts education
